

MYHOME, BROOKLYN

YOUR HOME, YOUR WAY™

MyNews

No. 3: May 27, 2010

MyHome, Brooklyn: Rockin'

Thanks for visiting our MyHome, Brooklyn website. Over the past few months traffic to our site has increased by a whopping 300%! We're also pleased to report that several more families are signing on to partner with us in creating their custom homes at reasonable prices.

Readings at Capote's Home on Willow Street

Did you catch the Brooklyn Heights Association's Evening of Readings at Truman Capote's old home on Willow Street in Brooklyn Heights? We sponsored this sold-out event, which featured actress Lauren Ambrose reading from Capote's best works. Check out our Facebook page for photos of the fun-filled evening.

Open House at 24 Remsen Street

We hosted a most unusual open house at 24 Remsen Street, not to sell or rent the property, but to introduce our prospective buyers to our aesthetics, our philosophy and our past work. Prospective partners saw for themselves how we simultaneously reinvented this terra cotta mansion in Brooklyn Heights while respecting the integrity of its original architecture. This is how we "roll" at MyHome, Brooklyn.

Architectural History of 183 Columbia Heights

Montrose Morris, our resident architectural historian, has been digging up the dirt on some of our potential opportunity properties, including 183 Columbia Heights in Brooklyn Heights. This property was a stable—the horses got the great water views—until an entrepreneur purchased it for $12,000 in 1899 and created "The Riverview... the most aristocratic apartment house in Brooklyn." Read more of the building's storied history here.

Swingin' into the Summer

Our own in-house sales director Betsy Hoffman and researcher Kate Barnes-Domotor have been engaging in a little civic improvement themselves, joining the Brooklyn Bridge Park Conservancy Junior Committee, whose mission it is to engage people in their 20s and 30s in the creation and sustaining of the park. On June 3, they're holding the first annual Twilight Swing event, which includes dancing, cocktails and, drum roll please, is sponsored by MyHome, Brooklyn. Tickets are $25 in advance and support the Conservancy.

Thanks and have a great holiday weekend,

Donald Brennan and the team at MyHome, Brooklyn.

917-568-6525

donald@myhomebrooklyn.com

Help spread the MyHome, Brooklyn LOVE Forward to a Friend